

Do you have an idea to spark youth health in your community?

The Go Youth! Open Call for Youth Voices is a global competition open to youth between 18 to 35 years old.

This crowdsourcing open call will identify youth-led social innovation in health initiatives around the world and support them in further research and measuring the impact of their ideas. Given the strong focus of this open call on providing research support, ideas with evidence on pilot or early-stage implementation are preferred.

All you need to do is either prepare a 500-word description or a 3-minute audio file or video describing your innovation, and submit it to us online, through email, or through WhatsApp! We accept submissions in all six languages of the United Nations, including Arabic, Chinese, English, French, Russian and Spanish.

Exceptional submissions will receive seed research funding, mentorship and support for their research, opportunities for networking and partnerships, as well as local and international recognition for their ideas.

The deadline is 30 June 2022.

This contest is organized by the Social Entrepreneurship to Spur Health team, as part of the Social Innovation in Health Initiative.
